First mobile phone worm discovered.

The first worm to be capable of _____<sup>1</sup> via mobile phones has been discovered.

The initial _____<sup>2</sup> of the proof-of-concept worm was _____<sup>3</sup> by Kaspersky Labs yesterday (14 June). EPOC/Cabir replicates on the EPOC-based Nokia Series 60 phones, although it is not currently known whether other EPOC-based devices are also _____<sup>4</sup>

When the file is launched, the telephone screen _____<sup>5</sup> the text 'Caribe'. The worm will then be activated each time the phone is started. Cabir scans for Bluetooth-enabled devices on the system, and sends a copy of itself to the first one it finds.

The worm is not thought to carry any malicious payload.

It _____<sup>6</sup> been speculated that the worm was created by member(s) of the 29a virus-writing group - the same group that is _____<sup>7</sup> to have created W64/Rugrat.3344, the first virus to affect 64-bit Windows systems, and other members of the W32/Chiton family, each member of which demonstrates a different "first ever" infection technique.

For detailed analyses of W64/Rugrat and EPOC/Cabir check out the June and July 2004 _____<sup>8</sup> of Virus Bulletin.
